LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

To His Excellency, the Honorable John C. West, Governor of South Carolina, and to The Honorable Members of The General Assembly of South Carolina:

Dear Sirs:

We have the honor to transmit the report of the South Carolina State Library for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1973.

We feel that this report is a particularly encouraging one. Library service is now available in all 46 counties and in all state institutions. Local support for public library service continues to increase and State Aid has increased to 25c per capita. Many libraries have been able to secure Revenue Sharing funds for construction and for service, and the only discouraging note is the threatened end of the Federal Library Services and Construction Act program through which for the past 15 years funds have come into the state for the improvement of library service. In general the level of library service is good and without exception its use increases.

The South Carolina State Library itself serves as a focal point of library service in the state. Its resources are being increasingly used by state government and state government agencies and both services and materials are constantly being increased to meet the specialized needs of this important clientele. Important advances have been made in the cooperative sharing of resources through interlibrary loan, and in consequence, service to the individual library patron has been immeasurably improved.

Although much has been accomplished, much yet remains to be done before the libraries in South Carolina realize their full potential of service to the people of the state. It is the mission of the South Carolina State Library to see that this potential is realized and that a good level of library service is enjoyed by all residents of the state.

Respectfully submitted,

H. CARLISLE BEAN

THE FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT THE SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

July 1, 1972-June 30, 1973

In 1969 the present South Carolina State Library was established by Legislative Act No. 464. The new agency combined the old State Library Board which was responsible for the extension and improvement of public library service and the former State Library, largely a documents collection. The new agency's responsibilities include all the duties of a general State library with special responsibility for state-wide development and coordination of library services. To carry out this mandate and the other several specific responsibilities imposed by law, the State Library has established the following basic objectives: (1) To provide comprehensive library services and resources to the people of South Carolina, giving every individual access to the informational resources of the State; (2) To furnish reference loan and research services to State government and State government agencies. The new State Library was structured and organized specifically to achieve these objectives.

REFERENCE AND INFORMATION SERVICE FOR STATE GOVERNMENT

A major responsibility of the State Library is to identify the information needs of State government and State agencies and to provide information and materials to meet these needs. The State Library serves government as a major information resource, research facility, and as a lead to other libraries and specialized data sources throughout South Carolina and the nation. With a staff trained in research, highly specialized material, and electronic equipment the State Library helps meet the information needs of State government quickly and efficiently. An important part of this service is the State documents collection together with the Federal documents received as a Federal depository.

To keep the State agencies up-to-date on the materials which are constantly being added to the collection and which will be of assistance to them in their programs, the State Library publishes and distributes a monthly selective listing of materials called "New Resources." In addition, constantly changing exhibits of new materials are maintained in the exhibit cases on the main floor of the State Library.

During the year State government and State agencies borrowed more than 8,000 books from the State Library and the reference staff answered 1676 reference questions for government agencies requiring considerable research.

REFERENCE AND INTERLIBRARY LOAN SERVICE

The major objective of the reference and interlibrary loan service is to make specialized books and other resources of the State Library and of other major libraries available to people throughout South Carolina through their local public libraries. The State Library provides a strong collection of in-depth background materials in specialized technical materials for interloan to libraries, a skilled professional reference staff to interpret and answer requests for information, and consultation service to aid local libraries in developing their own collections and improving their reference capabilities. The State Library is the center of an information network designed to meet the needs of the people and institutions of the State. It has access to the holdings of major libraries throughout the country. The ERIC collection of over 65,000 documents serves as a resource to the college and university libraries of the State as well as to the public libraries and is heavily used by members of the teaching profession at all levels.

To coordinate the reference resources of the State to better serve the people of the State is a major responsibility of the State Library. Since reference resources are limited, only through sharing these resources can libraries hope to provide a good level of reference service. As a step in this direction the State Library has microfilmed the complete catalogs of the University of South Carolina, Clemson University and its own catalog. These microfilm catalogs allow each of the three institutions to examine quickly the holdings of the others and secure loans through the interlibrary loan service to fill the serious requests of library patrons. The microfilm edition of the State Library's catalog also has been placed in the county libraries of Charleston, Florence and Greenville.

GOVERNMENT DOCUMENTS

The State Library continues its effort to establish a complete collection of South Carolina State documents. This project was initiated in 1970. The collection continues to grow although it is far from complete. During the year an additional 2,560 State documents were added to the collection. Even though the collection is still incomplete, it is used extensively by researchers both from this State and from others.

Each year the State Library compiles and publishes the annual Checklist of South Carolina State Publications which is a complete bibliography of State documents published by all departments and agencies of State government during the fiscal year. Some 500 copies of this checklist were distributed during the year.

TECHNICAL SERVICES

The Technical Services department continues to aid in building the State Library's collection of books and materials with the objective of making the collection an adequate resource for all libraries of the State. Because of the increase in book costs and the reduction in federal funding fewer books were added to the collection during the year.

Acquisitions included:

Books	6,596 Volumes
Microfilm periodicals.....	645 reels (including 32 new titles)
Microfilm newspaper	79 reels
Print periodicals	120 new titles
ERIC.....	11,637 microfiche
Federal documents	3,437
State documents.....	2,560

FIELD SERVICES

The field service program provides the direction and supervision at the local level of State and federally funded library projects. The object of the program is to extend and improve public library service throughout the State. During the year the field staff worked with all of the public libraries in the State. Two county library demonstration programs were in effect during the year in Kershaw and Marion counties. The Dillon County Library system was reorganized with new legislation, a new library board and increased support. Efforts continued to develop a headquarters library for the Clarendon County Library system. To assist local libraries in improving their fiscal administration, a series of three workshops for librarians and bookkeepers dealing with financial administration, auditing, bookkeeping, and project requirements were held.

STATE AID TO PUBLIC LIBRARIES

State Aid has been instrumental in the establishment and improvement of public library service throughout South Carolina. Initiated in 1943 at the level of $300 per county when the old State Library Board was established, State Aid has now increased to 25c per capita and will be increased to 35c per capita in 1973-74. Almost as important as the State Aid itself have been the requirements which local libraries must meet in order to participate in the State Aid program. These requirements have been largely responsible for the establishment of libraries on a county or regional basis and for book collections of high quality.

FEDERAL AID TO SOUTH CAROLINA LIBRARIES

Since 1956 when the Library Services and Construction Act went into effect, the State Library has administered federal funds under this program. The allocation is made to South Carolina on the basis of a five-year State Plan prepared by the State Library and an annual program of projects. During the past 17 years federal aid under this program has been used to remedy the major deficiencies in public library service, establish library service in State institutions and provide a better level of service to the blind and physically handicapped. The program has been of the greatest benefit to the development of library service in South Carolina but it has been difficult to handle because of uncertainties in the funding. Because of this factor projects have frequently been delayed or reduced in scope. With the Presidential veto and impoundment of the federal funds for library and other projects, the future of the program is unpredictable. In any event, the State has benefited to a great degree from LSCA grants to libraries since 1956, but the program is far from complete and it is hoped that federal funding will continue until a good level of service has been achieved in every county.

PERSONNEL PROJECTS

Well trained and experienced professional and pre-professional personnel are essential to the success of the library program in South Carolina. The State Library's personnel program is designed to recruit, train, and retain qualified personnel at the local level.

Intern Program: The Library Intern Program was designed to provide young people with the opportunity to explore the field of librarianship through a summer work-training program. The project was widely publicized and was a cooperative program of the State Library and the public and institutional libraries of the State. During the last year in which the program was conducted seventeen young people participated. However, the summer program for 1973 was cancelled because of the President's recommendation in January, 1973, for zero funding of LSCA funds for the following fiscal year.

In-Service Training Opportunities: As a part of the continuing effort to improve library service, the State Library provides in-service training opportunities for public and institutional librarians. Scholarships are awarded to professional and pre-professional librarians to attend workshops or institutes as well as regularly scheduled courses in library science. During the summer of 1972-73, five scholarships were awarded to professional librarians to attend institutes in library social action, executive development, and programs for reaching the adult. Four scholarships were awarded to pre-professional librarians from four county and regional library systems to take basic courses in library science in the areas of book selection, children's literature, and the use of audio-visual materials.

COUNTY LIBRARY PROJECT

The county library project has been the major instrument in the achievement of state-wide public library service through legally established county libraries. With the unification of the Kershaw County Library system in 1971, all 46 counties of the State have legally established county libraries. The County Library Project provides newly unified county library systems with financial assistance to develop adequate levels of service and financial support.

1972-73 was the final year of the three-year demonstration program for Marion County during which three separate libraries joined together to form a single system. It was the second year of the Kershaw County demonstration program.

Over the past 16 years the County Library Project has been responsible for the establishment of strong unified county-wide library programs in the following counties: Anderson, Beaufort, Darlington, Florence, Greenville, Kershaw, Marion, and York. All 46 counties now have unified library systems and upon the completion of the Kershaw project in 1973-74, the project will close.

LIBRARY SERVICE TO THE DISADVANTAGED

Since 1971 the State Library has assisted in extending public library service to the disadvantaged through the provision of grants-in-aid to county and regional libraries. With these funds, and additional local funds, many libraries have for the first time been able to reach the "unreached", both groups and individuals. Remote and isolated groups in rural areas and disadvantaged groups and individuals in urban areas have been new targets for library programs. The outreach factor has been of the greatest importance to libraries providing special service to a special clientele on a level to which they would respond.

The program to reach the rural disadvantaged was continued for the second year in twelve county and regional library systems which involved sixteen counties. Grants-in-aid for ongoing projects were provided. Funds were used for personnel, reading materials and equipment and for transportation. It is estimated that some 10,000 individuals have been reached through this project this year. Projects for the urban disadvantaged were conducted by nine county and regional libraries. The grant-in-aid was used for personnel, reading material, audiovisual equipment and materials, and for transportation. Two projects were conducted in Model City areas with special emphasis on coordinating library activities with those of other social service agencies. It is estimated that 65,000 individuals in urban areas were reached by these projects.

LSCA TITLE II: PUBLIC LIBRARY CONSTRUCTION

Although no additional funds were available in 1972-73 under the Library Services and Construction Act for public library construction, the State Library had a carry-over from a previous year which allowed the approval and authorization of grants-in-aid for the renovation and construction of a headquarters library building for the Marion County Library and a building for the Fairfield County Library headquarters. The Clinton branch of the Laurens County Library was authorized in 1971-72 and construction will begin soon after the first of July, 1973. The headquarters buildings for the Kershaw County Library and for the Cherokee County Library were both completed during the year.

With the approval of the grant for the Fairfield County Library building, the construction funds under the administration of the State Library are exhausted and no further grants can be made for library building construction.

INSTITUTIONAL LIBRARY SERVICE

With LSCA funds under its administration, the State Library has for the past several years promoted the establishment and improvement of library service in all State institutions. Twenty State institutions have participated in the program which includes grants-in-aid for the purchase of books, periodicals, and other materials for the patients' library and, in some cases, special equipment. In every case the institutional libraries have improved both in book collections and in housing. The libraries become more attractive each year and better able to meet the rehabilitative needs of patients and inmates. Among the institutions participating in this program are the Central Correctional Institution and its branches, the State Hospital, the juvenile correctional institutions and the mental health institutions.

A special institutional program is conducted to reach those addicted to alcohol and drugs. Since 1969 the Alcoholic Centers of the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation have participated in the program that provides the residents with collections of paperbound books of high reading interest. In 1972-73 the Addiction Center of the Department of Mental Health also began to participate in this project. In an effort to determine the best method of providing library service in the Centers, collections of paperback books carefully selected for high reading interest have been placed in each. Each year additional titles are added to the collections in order to keep them fresh and up-to-date. It is estimated that 70% of the residents of these Centers are making frequent use of the materials in the collections not only for recreation but also for group discussions in their therapy sessions.

The Pre-release Centers of the South Carolina Department of Corrections are provided library service on a contract basis with the local public library. The residents of these Centers are spending their last six months before release in the Centers which are geared to make the transition to ordinary civilian life an easy one. Library service is a part of this transition and it is hoped that the residents upon release will continue to make use of the public library for both recreational and informational needs.

LIBRARY SERVICE TO THE VISUALLY AND PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED

1972-73 is the last year that the Regional Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, jointly operated by North and South Carolina, will be in operation. At the close of this fiscal year South Carolina will accept the responsibility of providing its own library to serve its blind and physically handicapped citizens. Through this service a talking book machine, talking books, books in braille, tapes, cassettes, and books in large print are provided readers who cannot use conventional reading materials. The service, including postage costs, is free.

As of June 30, 1973, there were 2,831 blind and handicapped South Carolinians using the service. A total of 76,494 books (talking books, cassettes, tapes) were borrowed from the Regional Library. Total circulation of all types of material to the handicapped was 69,411. These figures represent a healthy increase in the use of books, periodicals and other materials by the blind and handicapped.

The State Library provides browsing collections of talking books in five county libraries which can provide reading guidance by a professional librarian. Anderson, Charleston, Greenville, Richland and Spartanburg County Libraries now participate in this project.
